FLOOR TWO

Light fantastic

FLOOR TWO

There is no fresher light in London than the light flooding in through the second floor windows. In fact, flooding in through all of the windows at Bureau. This is because our light only left the surface of the Sun 8 minutes ago. Yes, 8 minutes. Yes.

If you were to walk from your desk on your second floor, across the office to look out the window at historic London, that window would never be more than 6 seconds from your desk.

Light travels at 300,000 kilometres per second. That's 186,000 miles per second in old money. Thankfully, the lift is not as fast, but it still only takes a nifty 5 seconds a floor to travel from the Lobby.
